NOTES

1. If the title and content are different, you can apply for both Japanese and English divisions.
2. Refer to the template on the website before writing your essay.
3. Be sure to include your own opinion; do not just state facts.
4. Do not write your name or anything that will identify yourself in the essay.
Please note that forms other than those specified will not be accepted.
5. Your essay should be self-written and unpublished.
6. If you have references or citations, be sure to include them in a Works Cited page.
7. Fill out the cover page and submit it with your essay.
International students need to write their names in both English and Katakana.
8. Submitted essays will not be returned.
9. Prize-winning works (including essays) will be published in a booklet issued by this committee.
Also, The Doshisha website has a list of winners (name, school, grade, title) and the best work. I will post the text of the essay.
